COL. BAIN ADDRESSED IMMENSE SUNDAY CROWD

INSPIRATION FOR ALL IN HIS OPTIMISTIC VIEWS OF LIFE.

TODAY DEVOTED TO GRAND ARMY

Last Night of Moving Pictures—Big Crowd Will Hear the Innes Band Tomorrow.

The Assembly was formally opened Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock by the president, J. L. Moore of Polo, who said in part:

Ladies and Gentlemen: We are glad to welcome so many of you on this stormy afternoon to the nineteenth annual opening of the Rock River Chautauqua Assembly. When the organization of this assembly was effected there were very few assemblies in the state—now there are many. We have an excellent program which we know will please you every day to the last. The management has spared no expense and all is yours to enjoy.

At the close of his remarks, the president introduced Rev. S. S. Cryor who invoked divine blessing. After the prayer President Moore introduced Platform Director Rev. W. H. Blancke of Davenport, Iowa, who was enthusiastically received, and who made a very pleasing address, outlining the general purpose of the Chautauqua movement. He complimented the people of Dixon on this their favorite annual attraction. At the close of his address he introduced the Doubt Family Concert company, which greatly pleased the audience with their music. There are six ladies and two gentlemen, the latter playing the violin and clarionet. It was new to some of the audience to see a lady play two drums at once. Not only this she being a trap drummer also played the triangle, the cymbals and the many other instruments indicated by the term. This, their first performance was rendered under difficulties, as a torrent of rain was falling all the time that the company was on the platform.

Manager Blancke next introduced Miss Antoinette Huncke who sang a solo. At the close of this number the noise prouced by the storm drowned all vocal efforts either of speech or storm, even Dr. Blancke putting up a rather poor fight aganist the elements. The result was a social interspersed with music by the Marine band and the Doubt company at intervals when the storm was playing in a minor key.

Personals.

Arthur Dugdale and family of Ashton listened to the exercises Saturday afternoon. They drove over in a surrey accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Gilbert. Mrs. Charles Dugdale and Miss Nina Burright also of Ashton were present.

LUDWIG BARRON DEAD AT HIS NACHUSA HOME

Ludwig Barron died at his home in Nachusa Sunday morning at 1:30 o'clock after an illness of several weeks' duration.

Deceased was born in Somerset county, Pa., May 1, 1840, coming to Illinois in 1883 and taking up his residence on a farm near Nachusa, where he has since resided. Besides his widow he is survived by two daughters and one son. They are Clara Shaner of Chicago, Ida Hess of Nachusa and Charles Barron. Mr. Barron was a man who was highly respected by a large circle of friends.

The funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock in the church in Nachusa, with interment at the Dunkard cemetery.

C. & N. W. CONDUCTOR KILLED AT ROCHELLE

ROBERT MOORE STRUCK BY A FAST TRAIN AND HAD NECK BROKEN.

Robert Moore, a conductor on the Northwestern railroad running from Clinton to Chicago, was instantly killed at Rochelle at 5:30 Sunday morning by being struck by train No. 6, the fast passenger which passes through Dixon at 4:25 in the morning. Moore had his train, an eastbound extra, sidetracked in order to allow No. 6 to pass and was engaged in checking the cars on his train. Just as the last car passed the spot where he was standing Moore stepped over onto the eastbound track, not noticing the passenger train which was running through at a rapid rate of speed. He was struck and hurled thirty feet in the air, being instantly killed.

When picked up, upon examination it was found that his neck was broken in two places, and his back was also broken. Further, it was found that his chest was crushed in.

The remains were taken up and the coroner's inquest held Sunday afternoon.

Robert Moore was a man thirty-three years of age and leaves a wife in Clinton, Iowa. He has been running on the train which was the one he had in charge Sunday, for the past six months. Moore was a prominent Knight of Columbus of the Clinton Council and was well liked by all who knew him.

CIRCUS PERFORMERS ARE WATCHING ENGLISH BILL

Circus proprietors and performers of this country are at the present time much interested in the outcome of a bill which was lately introduced in the house of commons in Great Britain which is known as the "dangerous performance" bill.

If this bill passes and becomes a law, and the chances are very bright for its enactment, American circus performers who have for years startled the English people with their great acts will be barred from showing on the British Isle. Under the ban will be tight rope walking, bareback riding, trapeze work, besides any act in which there is a possible chance of a person receiving injuries. No woman or girl under sixteen years of age will be allowed to perform, according to another clause of the bill.

The bill which has been brought forth by the death of one or two girls while engaged in acrobatic feats is strongly opposed by the numerous music hall and circus interests and it is declared that the proposed law will put 10,000 people out of employment. The prohibition against the young performers is enough to kill the professional acrobats and circus riders as they are, necessarily, trained from a very early age.

The law will, if passed, bar such aggregations as Barnum & Bailey, the Ringlings or the Adam Forepaugh & Sells shows from showing in England as their 12,000 employes come under some clause of the bill. Under the ban also will be the Aurora Zouaves who have on several occasions made great hits in England and on the continent of Europe unless perhaps they could dispense with their thrilling wall-scaling act which is carried on with such speed that the members of the team are in great danger of being injured.

SARTORIAL NEWS.

Pongee In Great Demand For Gowns and Wraps—Motor Costumes.

Just at present the material most in demand is pongee in all its different qualities and colorings. House dresses, handsome reception gowns, coat and skirt costumes, traveling dresses—it does not seem to matter for what purpose, so varied are the summer models in pongee and rajah cloth.

One girl who motors a great deal has costumes to match all through. For example, one is all lavender or mauve. Her long, loose storm coat is of mauve satin with big smoke pearl buttons. Her veil is an enormous mass of lavender chiffon, yards and yards of it, arranged upon a small automobile turban of mauve straw. Her suede gloves are mauve and her linen gaiters are the same color. Then she has gray, tan, rose, brown and white costumes.

Plaid belts in leather and silk are smart to wear with white linen shirt waist suits, and plaid stockings are rumored to be equally stunning worn with the dress.

There is a new shade which goes by the name of biscuit, but it must certainly refer to them in their uncooked state if the name is to be applicable. The prettier biscuit color is the palest shade of tan—just one remove from cream.

RAJAH SILK SUIT.

For a light weight traveling suit rajah is excellent. It does not show dust readily, and it will stand a tremendous amount of wear. There are a few models made up with the box rever semi-fitted coat, but the majority of designs have the Eton or bolero trimmed with ruchings of taffeta or lace.

The attractive suit in the cut is in chestnut brown rajah silk with vest and strappings of cloth a shade darker. The buttons are small enameled affairs, and the tie is of a lovely burnished copper color.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

An Adventurous Correspondent.

Few newspapers of the United States are able to command the services of so brilliant a corps of correspondents as The Chicago Record-Herold. Its choice of Walter Wellman to represent it at Washington is a good illustration of its wise policy of getting the best there is to be had. Mr. Wellman has won a national reputation as a magnetic and resourceful writer. And now he is preparing to clinch his reputation for originality and daring by trying to reach the north pole in an airship.

Whatever may be the result of Mr. Wellman's daring attempt to reach the pole this summer in an airship and send the news of the voyage at once to the Record-Herald by wireless telegraphy, the Wellman-Record-Herald expedition is sure to be conducted by Mr. Wellman with the same cool courage and wholesouled enthusiasm that have made him an ideal newspaper correspondent.

Mr. Wellman was born in Mentor, Ohio, in 1858. At 14 he began his newspaper experience, establishing at that age a weekly paper in the little town of Sutton, Neb. In 1884 he became the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Herald, for which paper he visited the West Indies in 1892 and located the landing place of Columbus, marking the spot with a huge stone monument. In 1894 he made his first dash for the pole, and reached the latitude of 81 degrees northeast of Spitzbergen. In 1898 he tried the same fascinating quest again, penetrating as far as Franz Josef Land. On both trips he had wonderful success in discovreing new islands and securing new scientific data which have been of great value to the American Geographical society. His voluminous writings for scientific periodicals and popular magazines have shown the same incisive thought and keen insight that have marked his journalistic work.

By Way of Experiment

By NELLIE CRAVEY GILLMORE

Copyright, 1905, by Nellie Cravey Gillmore

GERALDINE came home from the club woman's luncheon hot and cross, "ready for an argument," quoted Billy, who figured peradventure as the lady's better half. Mainwaring was sitting, or, rather, sprawling, in one of the multifold lounging chairs that made comfortable the spacious veranda, his spiked feet raised opulently to the flowering banister rail.

Flung over his face as an impromptu guard against pertinacious insects was the latest comic weekly. His hands, long and brown and sinewy, gave combined attestation to the man's artistic temperament and a strong athletic susceptibility. On the floor beside him were some golf paraphernalia, a pitcher of ice water and half a dozen magazines.

Mrs. Mainwaring paused as she reached the top of the steps and regarded her sleeping spouse with a medley of emotions, depicted consecutively, upon her pretty, flushed face. Then a ripple of silent laughter passed over it, rendering her twice as enchanting as anything else could have done.

She tossed her long lace gloves, fan and cream chiffon parasol on a bench and tripped noiselessly up to her husband's chair. Lifting the paper a fraction, she stole a quick, cautious glance into the dark, relaxed features. He stirred vaguely. She waited a moment, then she looked again, and all at once it came to her that Mainwaring was a very handsome man, handsomer even than she had deemed him before he placed the wedding ring upon her finger.

His hair, black and fine and absolutely devoid of wave or crinkle, grew in a determined line high up on the square, bronzed forehead. The lashes, also straight, were somewhat lighter in shade, but so dense as to completely obscure that part of the cheek upon which they fell. Below a slightly prominent but well shaped nose his mouth revealed itself to be easily the best feature. It was neither too large nor too small, too thick nor too thin. It was not stubborn or even obstinate, but in a good natured, liberal way uncompromising to the last degree.

After a few minutes he sat up suddenly and tried to open his eyes, but ten pink tipped fingers checked their upward glance.

"So for once I've caught you napping." Geraldine came round to the front of his chair and stood looking down at him with laughing accusation.

Mainwaring squared himself and blinked at the mottle of sunlight on the sycamores. "I'll swear I wasn't asleep," he protested, with a vigorous disregard for veracity. "I just had my eyes shut, that's all."

Geraldine nodded indulgently and sank down in an adjacent chair.

"I didn't know till today," she observed, drawing half a dozen implements of war from her hat, "that I had married a diplomat."

"Many thanks for the civility of the term. It is most becoming in—a diplomat's wife."

"What a nice idea!"

She had crossed her hands at the back of her head in an attitude of deep reflection, and the words came with absent enthusiasm.

Presently her face lighted and she broke into a little amused laugh. "Billy," she said, "you can't guess what is to be our next topic for discussion!"

"What's the answer?"

"Don't be horrid, or"—

"I'll have to give it up."

"Just one guess," she insisted, with an uplifted forefinger.

"Is it the extermination of the automobile or—or Paul Jones' obituary?" He lighted a cigar with luxurious deliberation.

Geraldine took up his words briskly.

"Oh, if you can't—if you don't want to be serious," she flashed, "I"—

"Well?" he objected, with a half laugh. "If anything could be more serious"—

"That isn't the point at all," she interrupted, with a little impatient gesture, "and you know it. You are utterly aggravating and ridiculous, Billy!" she declared, with pink cheeks. Little pale gold wisps of hair had been loosened by the drive home in the wind and now blew about her soft, throbbing neck in bewitching restlessness. The fine veins in her temples pulsed with excitement, and her eyes, awhile ago gray, had deepened to black. Her lips, red and moist and vaguely tremulous, lost nothing by their sudden access of gravity as she went on:

"Waiving preliminaries, the subject is just this, 'Is love—romantic love, that is—a possible thing without jealousy?'"

Mainwaring stared at his wife oddly for an instant before he spoke. "Certainly not," he delivered authoritatively. After a second's silence he leaned over and imprisoned one of her hands in both his.

Mrs. Mainwaring pulled away from him impatiently. "I disagree with you," she remarked, with abrupt coldness.

"Oh, it is possible, of course, where no cause exists," he commented, with masculine complacence.

"That point necessitates a definition of the word 'cause.'"

"As a matter of fact, what would be ample and sufficient reason with one person might amount to so much wind with another."

"Jealousy is merely an acknowledgment of superiority in some one else," she submitted positively.

"In which event—a tribute to the delinquent one's good judgment, an essential tribute. I rather think your point of view is somewhat quixotic. There's no accounting for people's tastes, you know. I have seen them walk over pearls and take the stones."

"I don't see"—

"Let me illustrate. I once knew a man whose wife was beautiful and clever and good. He openly abandoned her society for that of another, who was neither attractive, interesting nor in any way good."

"Possibly his wife bored him with her very perfections."

"She did not bore other men."

"And was she jealous?"

"In a proud, silent way I presume she was."

"Did she exert herself to hold her husband's love?"

"Most women who love men do, don't they?"

Geraldine made no response and for several minutes afterward was silent. Presently she suggested, "Perhaps, after all, if she was, as you say, clever, she was not jealous of her husband's attachment."

"Geraldine!"

"Yes?"

"Just suppose now, for instance, that I—that I were—to"—

"Don't be absurd, Billy. We are not trying to get personal, are we?"

"That is the only way to arrive at correct conclusions."

"Personal applications are biasing," remarked Geraldine, with a sage look.

"They are vital, and they tell."

She laughed deliciously and tossed her head into one of its ravishing poises. "Then I am still determined to disagree with you on the original question," she said. "There is nothing that could make me jealous of you, Billy."

Mainwaring contemplated her with shadowed eyes. "Then I am very much afraid," he returned, in a dejected tone, "that you do not care for me in the right way, the real way."

"On the other hand, my dear, you ought to consider this the very highest compliment I could pay you"—a radiant smile broke across her face—"the sincerest evidence of my absolute love and trust," she added earnestly.

"But, my dear girl," he protested in a surprised tone, "women like to feel that their husbands are jealously inclined; men like to think that their wives are—'cause' counted out."

Geraldine bridled. "That I consider a most vulgar statement," she flared, "and it does not in the least alter my views, to which I mean to adhere strictly, whatever comes—or goes."

Mainwaring rose, stretched himself resignedly and stalked to the end of the veranda. When he came back

"JUST ONE GUESS," SHE INSISTED.

Geraldine had fled. He pondered a moment, during which his face underwent a succession of panoramic changes. Finally he drew from his pocket a small memorandum book and fountain pen. This is what he wrote:

My Dearest Daphne (the name sounded well, he thought)—I am longing fiercely for a sight of your sweet face. Excuse haste and drop me a line by return mail saying when. Ever your own

BILLY BOY.

He reread the lines with an inspired expression, then turned the leaf over and scribbled something across the back of it. Afterward he took a careful inventory of surroundings and, stooping, placed the paper, face up, on the floor.

Ten minutes later, when Mrs. Mainwaring returned to the porch, her husband had re-ensconced himself in his reclining chair and was snoring lustily.

"Upon my word," she began, with a touch of indignation, when her glance fell upon the paper at her feet. She picked it up with some curiosity, the pupils of her eyes darkening and dilating till they extended almost to the rims of the gray irises as she caught a glimpse of the address in her husband's unmistakable handwriting.

She read the lines through three times, first with naked incredulity, then with rising resentment and finally with deadly deliberation. She paled, flushed and paled again till her lips even looked white.

For several seconds she neither took breath nor moved. Something cold and hard and terrible seemed closing about her throat, choking the very life out of her.

At this juncture Mainwaring came to life suddenly.

"Good gracious!" he cried, jerking himself to a sitting posture. "One would think you had seen a ghost, Geraldine."

"Worse than"— His lips twitched as he struggled frantically for poise.

"I have seen—this!" she broke out with sudden passion, one hand, in which lay a crushed bit of paper, extended tragically.

me see it," he said, with quiet insistence, loosening her fingers with suddenly cold, unsteady hands. Smoothing out the paper, he scanned the words with blood burned cheeks.

"Well?"

They looked at each other for one unutterable minute, and silence seemed to suffocate them both till the woman broke it sharply.

"Now tell me everything," she said in a concentrated tone of voice that fought hard to eliminate all trace of weakness.

And then, to the consternation of Geraldine, Mainwaring did a most remarkable thing. He laughed till he had to hold his side, after which he turned and took her fiercely in his arms. "Billy, how—how dare you!"

Mainwaring relaxed his embrace, his lips still smiling. His eyes bore an oddly triumphant look. "Turn the paper over," he commanded, "and see what is written on the other side."

She obeyed meekly. All power of resistance seemed vanished. She read:

Dearest Geraldine—This is simply by way of experiment—as a means of proving to you that you are no different from other people.

BILLY.

Geraldine turned to him indignantly, compelling his eyes by the rising challenge in her own. "I would not have dreamed," she commenced frigidly, "that—that"— Her voice weakened helplessly, her eyes filled with irresistible tears, and she collapsed limply in his arms.

"Oh, Billy!" she sobbed.

A Quaint Old Town.

Salem, N. C., is one of the oldest towns in the United States. Driven out of Saxony more than 200 years ago on account of religious persecution and led by Count Zinzendorf, the followers of the Moravian church journeyed to North Carolina and, settling at the foot of the beautiful Blue Ridge mountains in the western part of the state, founded the town of Salem. Among all the changes brought about by the process of time Salem has always preserved its individuality and the atmosphere of the long ago. A visiting globe trotter once remarked that the only thing lacking to make it a complete reproduction of an old Saxony town was the clatter of the wooden shoe. Salem is the twin sister of the modern town of Winston, and the two are commonly spoken of as Winston-Salem, yet to cross the railroad track which marks the dividing line between the two is to step from the twentieth century into the seventeenth.—New York Press.

BISHOP ASSAILS GORKY

Calls Him Villain, Scoundrel and Pollutor of Womanhood—Socialism Denounced.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 30. — The fifth annual convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies opened here with a mass meeting at Convention hall. President Minahan, of the National Federation, was not present, but Archbishop Messmer, of Milwaukee, and Bishop McFaul, of Trenton, N. J., the joint founders of the movement, responded to the addresses of welcome.

Bishop McFaul spoke against the evils of socialism and divorce. "The stability of this nation rests upon the American home," he said. "Socialism would stretch out her foul hands upon the property of our people. Look at Maxim Gorky, the Russian socialist, coming to America to ask us to turn upon Russia. See him living with a woman who cannot be recognized as his wife. That villain and scoundrel and polluter of womanhood would preach to us the gospel of human liberty."

CAN DEPORT IMPORTED LABOR

Canada Sustained in Her Right to Prevent Foreigners from Working in That Country.

Detroit, July 30.—General Counsel Frederick W. Stevens, of the Pare Marquette railway, has received word from the Canadian attorneys of the road that the privy council of England has sustained the ruling of the Canadian high court which ordered the deportation some time ago under the Canadian alien labor act of several officials of the road from the United States, who were employed at the division headquarters in St. Thomas, Ont.

The decision will not affect the Pere Marquette any, as the road has moved its division headquarters from St. Thomas to Detroit since the appeal was taken, but is important as definitely establishing the right of Canada to prevent United States citizens from working in the Dominion.

ITALY WANTS TO KNOW

She Is After the Facts Attending a Recent Mob Murder of Italians in North Carolina.

Washington, July 30.—At the request of the Italian embassy the state department has addressed a letter to the governor of North Carolina suggesting that an agent of the Italian government, to be designated by the embassy, be accorded the privilege of attending the hearings in court concerning the alleged killing and wounding of a number of Italian laborers, employed in laying a new railroad in that state by a mob recently.

The governor is also requested to afford other facilities to the agent for the ascertainment of the facts in the case, which are said to be far from clear at present.

Bryan's European Itinerary.

London, July 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Bryan, accompanied by Colonel Wetmore, M. F. Dunlap, Mrs. Dunlap and Miss Dunlap (of Chicago), have left London for Holland. They will visit Amsterdam and The Hague, go to Cologne, where Mr. and Mrs. Bryan will join their daughter, and then go up the Rhine, through Switzerland and to Venice, Florence, Rome and Naples, successively, reaching Paris between Aug. 10 and 15. They will then go to Madrid, Granada and Gibraltar, whence they will sail for home Aug. 20.

Preparing for Michigan Men.

Indianapolis, July 30. — The quartermaster and commissary departments for the Michigan militia have been established at Camp Benjamin Harrison preparatory to the arrival of the Michiganders next Saturday. Major H. W. Leach, commissary of that state, has arrived. Brigadier General C. W. Harrah, of Michigan, is expected Wednesday and the governor of Michigan it is understood will come Aug. 9.

Madman Bites Three Men.

Pittsburg, July 30.—Snapping and snarling like a dog and rolling and writhing on the ground, while suffering from an acute attack of hydrophobia, William Garrison, bit three men before being gotten under control. The men bitten are Policeman C. J. Grimes, Wagonman Robert Holmes and Walter Owens, a citizen.

TRAGEDY OF A YACHT

SEVEN FISHERS ARE DROWNED

Lifeboat Men Do Heroic Work Rescuing the Survivors — Deaths by Various Accidents Are Numerous.

Anglesea, N. J., July 30.—Two yachts coming in from the fishing banks capsized on Hereford inlet bar off here, and eight persons lost their lives. There were thirty-two persons on one yacht, of whom seven were lost, and twelve on the other, all of whom but one were saved. That not more fell victims to the rough sea was due to the heroism of Captain Henry S. Ludlam, of the Hereford Inlet life-saving station, and a crew of five men. So far as known all the dead came from Philadelphia or vicinity.

Wind Freshens Too Much.

The two yachts that got into trouble were the sloop yacht Nora, which had on board Captain Herbert Shivers, his mate, and thirty passengers, and the sloop Alvin B, with a party of twelve. The Nora had gone to the fishing banks at Five Fathom bank, about ten miles out to sea, early in the day. When the wind began to freshen Captain Shivers decided that it was time to make port, and with the assistance of a small gasoline engine and a good spread of canvas he made good time toward Anglesea. As the sloop bowled along the wind was getting stiffer and the sea rougher. Captain Shivers, from long experience, knew how treacherous is the Hereford bar, and approached it with his usual caution.

Hit by a Squall and a Wave.

The sand obstruction is about a mile from shore. Just as he was about to go over it a heavy squall struck the Nora. Despite the efforts of the captain the craft heeled over and was hit by a huge wave. The wind and the wave coming together was more than the yacht could stand, and it turned completely over, throwing the thirty-two occupants into the sea.

Saved by Heroic Work.

All who were left alive got hold of the vessel's keel, but gradually the survivors diminished in number until but twenty-five were left of the thirty-two. The survivors had nearly given up hope when Captain Ludlam with his life-boat hove in sight and by heroic work after at the risk of the lives of the rescuers the survivors were gotten on board the lifeboat. The yacht Alvin B capsized about a mile from where the Nora had her disaster, but as there were several boats nearby all but one were saved.

BAD RAILWAY WRECKS

Three Persons Are Killed and Many Others Wounded.

Fishkill Landing, N. Y., July 30.—Pacific express train No. 37 of the New York Central and Hudson River railroad was wrecked shortly before midnight a short distance above Chelsea, and eleven miles below Poughkeepsie, by running into a landslide. The engine of the flyer was thrown from the rails and plunged into the river. Fireman Mills was killed outright and Engineer Edward Wells, whose home is in the Bronx, New York, was so badly injured that he will die. Fifteen passengers were seriously injured and a score of others received minor hurts. The most seriously injured is Edward Kelly, of Poughkeepsie, will die. Four others had limbs broken.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 30.—The local Southern Pacific passenger train running between Pasadena and this city collided with a Sierra Madre electric car at Onenta station, near Pasadena, killing one woman and injuring possibly sixty, several of whom will die. The dead woman is an unknown Mexican. The seriously injured are Miss Blanche St. George, Los Angeles, hurt internally, unconscious, may die; Dr. Wallace, body badly bruised, both arms crushed; C. Stanley Toeley, Sierra Madre, hurt internally, may die; Miss Edna Hedderly, Los Angeles, serious.

Where Lightning Was Deadly.

Cleveland, O., July 30.—During a severe rain and electrical storm which swept over this city, at a funeral, just as the minister was offering the final prayer, a bolt of lightning struck John Cylisky, a driver, killing him.

Wellston, O., July 30.—While the members of a local lodge were holding a picnic in a large grove at Springfield Switch, a bolt of lightning threw twenty-two people to the ground. Nine of them were rendered unconscious and two—Felix Woods and Susie Farmer—will probably die.

Drowned While Boating.

New York, July 30.—Three of a party of six persons who were boating on Lake Hopatcong, N. J., were drowned when their craft capsized. The dead are George Latt, 24 years old; Miss May Klemmer, 20 years old, and Miss Bertha Smith, aged 22, all of Brooklyn.

His Ribs Pierced His Heart.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 30.—In a street car collision at the Soroa Pico street and Grand avenue crossing one man was killed and seven persons were injured, at least two of whom are expected to die. The dead man is A. A. Unman, of Los Angeles. Two of his ribs were crushed and thrust through his heart. The seriously injured are Dudley Cavanagh and Mrs. Dudley Cavanagh, of Los Anegles.

LOSSES AT SAN FRANCISCO

Conservative Estimates Put Them as High as $300,000,000 by Quake and Flame.

San Francisco, July 30.—A report which will show in detail the losses of each company doing an insurance business in California at the time of the big fire is being prepared in the office of Insurance Commissioner Wolf. It is believed that the report will sustain the contentions of the commissioner that the insurance loss will be over $250,000,000. With each day the estimates of the commissioner nave been supported by appraisement of losses.

Conservative adjusters now go as high as $300,000,000 in their estimate of the losses. The records of Wolf's offices constitute the only complete set of records saved. Each company, however, has arrived at a definite knowledge of its losses. The data will be collected and embodied in a tabulated statement which will clear away the present uncertainty as to the extent of insurance liability for property destroyed by the conflagration of April 18.

SAYS VARDAMAN IS VAIN

Senator McLaurin Declares the Governor Fairly Yearns for Newspaper Notoriety.

Jackson, Miss., July 30.—United States Senator McLurin has given out a reply to an interview of Governor Vardaman's in which Senator McLaurin and other members of his family were criticised. He says: "Governor Vardaman is so inordinately vain that he cannot pass a newspaper man without stopping to get himself interviewed. His screed was as unprovoked as it was vicious. His abuse of me does not have even the merit of novelty, dating back to 1894, when he thought he was a candidate for governor.

"His insincerity is glaringly patent in his reference to bossism. It appears to me as if Governor Vardaman has pretended on this groundless occasion to abuse me in the expectation that it disgusting appeal to a contemptible motive."

GOVERNOR DAVIDSON TALKS

What He Has to Say of the Situation as to the "Outlaw" John Dietz.

St. Paul, Minn., July 30.—A special dispatch from Chippewa Falls, Wis., says that Governor Davidson, referring to the Deitz matter, said: "What I now will do should Sheriff Gylland ask aid I cannot say. Dietz certainly must now be captured, and also his whole family. If Sawyer county is unable to effect the capture the state must take a hand. Wisconsin is getting tired of this outlawry, and it is going to stop even if it takes the whole state militia to do so.

"The case is now more serious than it ever was before. Not only is Dietz under suspicion for having shed blood, but his whole family, and every member will have to be taken into custody and the guilty ones picked out by due process of law."

Death of Martin Cullaton.

Indianapolis, July 30.—Martin Cullaton, formerly a well known printer, editor and publisher, is dead after an illness etxending over seven years. The cause of death was cerebral hemorrhage. He was 73 years old.

REGIMENTAL REUNIONS AND FORTY-THIRD ANNIVERSARY BATTLE CHICKAMAUGA.

Chattanooga, September 18-20, 1906.

On September 18, 1906, will occur the forty-third anniversary of the Battle of Chickamauga. It is proposed to celebrate this memorable event with a reunion of the various regiments that participated in this memorable battle and the various battles fought around Chattanooga. This reunion will be held at Chickamauga National Park, September 18, 19 and 20, and the present indications are that it will be the largest and most notable gathering ever held in the South. On the above dates, the remnants from the armies of twelve states, comprising the following: Pensylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas and Kentucky, will assemble, many for the first and last time since they marched from its blood-stained fields, forty-three years ago.

Here is one of the great opportunities for the education of the youth. Don't fail to take your children and show them historic Chattanooga, with all its historical connections. It is the opportunity of a lifetime. Go and see the old war generals and other officers point out the places of interest on the battlefield; let them show you and explain, in person, the markers erected on the battlefield showing the positions of the opposing armies at the time of battle. It will not be long until none will be left to do this noble work.

It will be many years, if ever again, that such an opportunity will present itself. See that your tickets read via the Louisville & Nashville R. R., the Battlefield Route. Call on your nearest railroad agent for rates and advertising matter pertaining to the reunion, or write nearest representative of the Louisville & Nashville R. R.

It wasn't a Missouri editor, but a printer's devil who was going through his first experience in "making up" forms. The paper was late and the boy got the galleys mixed. The first part of the obituary notice of an impecunious citizen had been dumped into the forms, and the next handful of type came off a galley describing a recent fire. It read like this, "The pall bearers lowered the body to the grave and as it was consigned to the flames there were few if any regrets, for the old wreck had been an eyesore to the town for years. Of course there was individual loss, but that was fully covered by insurance." The widow thinks the editor wrote the obituary that way because the lamented partner of her joys and sorrows owed him five years' subscription.

YATES' ASSAULT ON FEDERAL CROWD IS ATTACK ON PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

Ex-Governor Yates relies upon abuse of what he calls the "federal crowd" to bring to him the nomination for United States senator. It is cheap stock in trade. He does not pretend to rely upon his own record, or upon any unfitness of Senator Cullom. He simply goes about the country attacking federal officers. He does not specify anything particularly wrong with any individual officer, but talks about the imaginary crowd of office holders. If he would specify what was wrong with the different ones, the people in that neighborhood could then determine whether they were unworthy of confidence. Who appoints the federal officers? The president of the United States. He alone is responsible for them. He will appoint no one who is not satisfactory to him. The constitution of the United States requires that many of such office holders shall be consented to by the senate and that appointments of some postmasters shall be recommended by some congressmen. President Roosevelt stands by the position that he took twenty-five years ago and that is, that the president of the United States shall be independent in his appointments and that he shall appoint to one who is simply recommended by a senator or congressman. He is a civil service reformer, has been for twenty-five years and carries that reform principle into proctice. He, in this regard, is different from other presidents. He relies upon merit in making appointments. This is known to every public official. Each official is aware of the fact that it is upon merit alone that he retains his position. That by doing good work and avoiding the use of politics in public office, he can maintain his position. It is easy to be seen that the abuse and falsehoods as to the so-called "federal crowd" is aimed at President Roosevelt. It is plain that he is a hypocrite when he says that he is a friend of President Roosevelt's and that President Roosevelt is a friend of his. He well knows that President Roosevelt cannot be friendly to him, knowing his record, character and qualifications. Yates is indirectly attacking President Roosevelt. He would do it directly if it were not for the love of the American people for the president. Will this deception and indirect assault upon the p meet with the arpproval of the people? Let the vote of the people of Lee county on the 4th day of August next, answer this question.

MAY USE CIGAR BOXES FOR STORE DISPLAYS

Mr. Dauntler Gets the Opinion of Revenue Collector Upon Disputed Question.

A few days ago The Telegraph reprinted from an exchange an article which stated that all cigar dealers must destroy the boxes after the cigars have been sold from them, which would indicate that the boxes could not be used for displays or be given away.

To settle a doubt upon this point J. J. Dauntler of this city wrote to Revenue Collector Hertz at Chicago and asked his opinion of the law, receiving the following reply:

Internal Revenue Service
Collector's Office,
Chicago, Ill., July 28, '06.

J. J. Dauntler, Esq.,
Dixon, Illinois.

Sir: Replying to your inquiry of July 27, concerning disposition of empty cigar boxes, I haev to state that unde rthe law when a box is emptied of cigars, the stamp thereon must be destroyed. This is sufficient for all ordinary purposes.

Empty cigar boxes, on which the stamp has been destroyed, may be used by dealers for display purposes, but the factory number and caution notice must also be destroyed, if the dealer wishes to sell or give such boxes away.

You are, therefore, permitted to use such empty boxes, provided the stamps have been destroyed, but be very careful, if you dispose of the boxes, to see that the factory number and caution notice are destroyed.

Respectfully,
HENRY L. HERTZ,
Collector.

Candidate Yates' Attacks on President Roosevelt

(From the Chicago Journal)

Dick Yates attackes what he calls the "federal despotism" in Illinois and incidentally attacks the man appointed by President Roosevelt to federal office in this state on the advice and recommendation of Illinois' senators and congressmen, including Speaker Cannon.

PRES. THEODORE ROOSEVELT.
The Man Who Is Being Attacked By Candidate Yates.

The inference from his remark is that if he had been president he would have appointed much better men than Mr. Roosevelt has appointed. There is, of course, no way of proving that. But it is possible to arrive at a just conclusion regarding it by considering the character of the appointments made by Yates when he was governor and by comparing his appointees with President Roosevelt's.

When Yates denounces the federal appointments of the president does he imply that any of his appointees was superior to Judge Solomon Bethea, for example, whose able and energetic conduct of the government's suits against the Chicago packers attracted the president's attention, awoke his admiration and at last induced him to elevate District Attorney Bethea to the federal bench? When Yates denounces President Roosevelt's appointees does he include Judge Bethea?

Where among Yates' appointees was there a man any better than the former United States District Attorney, Charles B. Morrison, a great lawyer, a resourceful and indefatigable prosecutor, who carried on so efficiently the work begun by Mr. Bethea that President Roosevelt and Attorney General Moody have asked him to conduct the prosecution of the Standard Oil company?

Does Yates attack the character of District Attorney Simms?

Did Governor Yates appoint anybody to office who was the superior of that brilliant and able attorney whom President oRosevelt, at the recommendation of the bench and bar of Chicago, made a United States district judge—Kenesaw M. Landis?

Who among Yates' appointees equaled, not to say surpissed, in ability and character Christian C. Kohlsatt, whom President Roosevelt promoted from the district to the circuit bench?

Was any of Yates' appointments more satisfactory than President Roosevelt's appointment of Bred Busse to be postmaster of Chicago—a man of force, whose life has been an open book here in Chicago all his days?

Has Yates anything to say against the character of John Ames, who during the eight years he was a United States marshal made the best record in the county in that office? Or against the character of Luman T. Hoy, Charles Bent, Thos. O'Shaughnessy and William Boldenweck?

When these appointments of President Roosevelt's are compared with such of Dick Yates' appointments as those of Jos. Bidwill, Mack Tanner, Rudolph M. Patterson, whom Gov. Deneen could not stomach, Henry Yates, Arthur French, James Neville, Fred Rowe, W. J. Moxley and Len Small, Yates' attack on President Roosevelt and the Illinois delegation in congress seems impudent.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL DRAIN INADEQUATE

WILL NOT TAKE CARE OF FLOOD WATER FROM SEVENTH STREET.

CURB WASHED OUT, WALK SINKS

Demonstrates the Need of the Fifth Street Arch Which the People Desire.

Residents in the vicinity of Depot avenue and Central place from Third street to the Northwestern yards are making complaint over the condition of drainage which exicts there, especially since the work of constructing a new drain at the Seventh street crossing of the Central has been begun. The heavy rain of Saturday brought out many palpable deficiencies in the system and there has been a storm of protests over the state of affairs. One of the most lamentable features of the case is the evident failure of the Central to accomplish its object in the construction of the new drain. When started it was the intention of the workmen to construct the drain in such a way that it would carry off the water from the south yards and let it run down Seventh street into the big ditch in the hollow. When the rain blew up on Saturday morning the first real test of the feasibility of the plan was made and it was found to be a failure.

The water is conducted into a chute along the south side of the crossing and emptied into the curb ditch at the east side of the tracks, and when the flow started on Saturday it was seen that the immense amount of water which passed into the road was washing away the foundation of the curb. Before night the entire curb for a distance of thirty feet had been undermined and the curb stones fell into the street. This left a hard strain on the sidewalk and the latter is now sagging and cracking, leaving it in miserable shape. If allowed to continue a few rains will leave the sidewalk in impasable condition.

On Central place from the Central yards to Third street and on Depot avenue from the Northwestern yards to Fifth street there is no outlet for the water and the tendency of the surface water is to flow east from both points. On Saturday in particulay the heavy rain sent an enormous amount of water down upon the intersection of Fifth street and Central place and made a veritable pond of the corner and the Dana property at that point. The ditch, which is constructed on the west side of the street at that place, is entirely insufficient to carry away the water and it flooded the street. The catch basin at the intersection of Third street and Central place, too, is not of a large enough extent to handle the water and an overflow occurred at that place, flooding the floor of the Third street arch and making passage impossible.

As a remedy for the troubles in this section the opening of Fifth street by means of an arch is the only available means of relife and it necessarily is incumbent upon the city officials and the railroad officials to let the matter have their attention in order that the residents in this district may be relieved.

TWO HERDS OF WONDERFUL ACTING ELEPHANTS

Are With Gentry Brothers Famous Shows This Season—Circus Day Is Wednesday.

Although the great Gentry shows have a number of new features this year, some of which are not to be equaled by any other tented exhibition, they still retain their wonderful troupe of performing elephants, who, by the way, will be seen this season in an entirely new act entitled Fighting the Enemy. This act is the only animal performance which was ever copied by these expert trainers, who have always been the originators of all the great animal acts. Last winter however, at the New York Hippodrome there appeared an elephant act which surpassed in every way any thing ever seen before in America. It was imported direct from India, where elephants come from, and in the vernacular of the street it was "a peach." Permission was granted by the Gentry Bros. and the act has been reproduced exactly as it appeared for two hundred consecutive nights at New York's greatest arena. Seven elephants participate in "fighting the enemy," the act being a panoramic display which one not familiar with elephants and their work would never deem possible. It is sure to create a sensation in this city when the great Gentry shows exhibit here on Wednesday.

CULLOM CLAIMS 79 COUNTIES IN STATE

CANVASS OF STATE SHOWS THE SENATOR HAS A STRONG ADVANTAGE.

FIVE FOR YATES: 18 DOUBTFUL

Sentiment In the Country Is Overwhelmingly Against Yates' Machine.

A canvass of the 51 senatorial districts of the state completed yesterday by managers of the Cullom campaign shows that Yates has an advantage in only five districts, two of which are in Cook county. It is conceded that if Governor Deneen makes a desperate fight for Yates in the four towns of Lake wards the fourth and eleventh senatorial districts may be carried against Senator Cullom. The remaining seventeen senatorial districts in Cook county are regarded safe for Senator Cullom.

The country senatorial districts in which Yates appears to have an advantage are the tenth or Winnebago-Ogle district, the twentieth or Kankakee district, and the forty-eighth or Wabash district. The remaining twenty-nine districts are regarded safe for Senator Cullom.

Senator Cullom's advisers met in conference yesterday at the Great Northern hotel and decided they would make an effort to offset the effect of a Yates indorsement in the town of Lake. It was argued by the senator's campaign managers that under the primary law the vote on United States senator was intended to be advisory only and that it ill became a candidate to attempt to bring organized influence to bear on an advisory vote. One of the Cullom aids explained the situation by saying: "To attempt to force republicans to vote for Cullom under a primary election law which calls for an advisory vote only would be equivalent to asking a man what he thought of the fitness of a candidate and at the same time handing him a card with instructions to read the printed answer."

According to the Cullom canvass of the 102 counties of the state only four counties are figured on as sure for Yates. These are Calhoun, Carroll, Grundy and Kankakee. The summary of the canvass of counties is as follows:

Sure for Cullom	80
Sure for Yates	4
Doubtful, chances for Cullom	6
Doubtful, chances for Yates	8
Doubtful, chances about even	4
Total	102

In the tenth senatorial district, comprising Winnebago and Ogle counties. Winnebago is said to lean to Yates, and Winnebago controls the district. This county was carried by Colonel Lowden but two years ago, but as the result of a deal between Deneen and Yates, Colonel Lowden was denied a single delegate to the state convention.

CENTRAL EMPLOYES' PICNIC AT KANKAKEE

Illinois Central employes are considerably interested in the annual picnic of Central employes of the company, to occur at Goungen grove, a short distance from Kankakee, on August 18. Free transportation will be furnished for all the Central employes and their families and several thousand people will be in attendance to spend the day in the country. For the accommodations of the employes special trains will be run from Chicago and it is understood that free transportation can be had from this city to Kankakee and return by the company's employes here who desire to attend the picnic. The committee having the affair in charge has made plans to bring out of it the most successful outing of this kind ever enjoyde by Central people. The music of the day will be furnished by the Illinois Central band of Burnside and it is not unlikely that the company's band at Clinton will also be taken on the trip. In the afternoon there will be games, contests of various kinds, wiht prizes for the winners.

THE CENTRAL'S PLAN TO PREVENT FIRES

The Illinois Central officials are taking precautionary methods for the prevention of fires along their right of way. In a circular received at the yard office attention is called to the liability of fires being started from sparks dropped from engines in dry grass, hay or weeds along the track. The trainmen have been provided with a report card which they have been instructed to give to the nearest section foreman when they discover fire along the right of way. In this manner the officials hope to keep the flames from spreading to the adjacent fields.

I. F. EDWARDS IS PUSHING CAMPAIGN

LEFT FOR CENTRAL ILLINOIS TO STUDY SITUATION THIS AFTERNOON.

PLEASED AT CHICAGO ATTITUDE

Will Return To Dixon For Council Meeting and To Conduct the Teachers' Examination.

I. F. Edwards left this morning for Clinton, Bloomington and Decatur to look after the political situation in all three of these cities. Mr. Edwards says that that section of the state is very much Edwards. He will return to Dixon some time Friday i norder to attend the meeting of the city council. Next Saturday he will hold a teachers' examination at his office in the court house.

Mr. Edwards returned from Chicago Saturday evening and expressed himself as being well pleased with the situation in Cook county. While in the city Mr. Edwards had a conference with the men who run things and they all assured him that his prospects looked very flattering. Fred Busse, whose guest Mr. Edwards was during his stay in Chicago, assured him that Cook would not speak out openly against the Lee county candidate. Busse feels very friendly towards Mr. Edwards and if it is in his power to assist Mr. Edwards he will do so.

There has been a great deal of talk going around about Cook county instructing for Blair, but there does not seem to be very much to this but talk. The chances are that Blair and Edwards will run very close with Edwards in the lead. In the city of Aurora Edwards will run away ahead. Four or five wards in Chicago have already instructed for Edwards.

There will be a great amount of work done this week for Mr. Edwards and it remains to be seen when the vote is counted just what effect it will have towards making I. F. Edwards the republican nominee for state superintendent of public instruction.

Mrs. Fred Parker and daughter of Chicago are here visiting Mrs. H. T. Chiverton, Mr. Parker's sister.

Miss Mamie Reynolds is a visitor at the John Sterling home in North Dixon. She has been in Davenport with relatives for some time and will leave in the morning for Grand Rapids, Mich., stopping in Chicago for a short visit with Miss Lonnie Stevens.

Sporting News and Notes.

Danville, 5; Dixon, 3.

Sunday's game at Central park was such an improvement over the games of recent date that the fans were more than pleased and everyone had a good word to speak for the magnificent reversal of form which the Browns have undergone. True, errors were numerous, but errors did not mean runs, except in one instance, and hence all the misplays were excusable.

A real article of ball was put up by both teams and at the end the score, 5 to 3, was as it should be under the circumstances. No one had a kick coming and everyone enjoyed it. Leonard Woodyatt was the batting star of the day, getting three good clean singles. Honors at the bat were shared with Mark Woodyatt, who nailed three safe ones also.

James Drew, the veteran behind the bat, was there with the stick and caught a good game.

Of the colored gentry Brummer did things with the bat and his total of three hits, one of them a two bagger, look even as good on paper as it did in reality.

The first inning was a quiet o nothing being done in the scoring in the hitting line. The second saw the Unions get their stride and two safe wallops, aided by a brace of errors, gathered two. That was all until the fourth. Then the Browns made a stab at it. L. Woodyatt led off with a single, Strawbridge got a pass, Gordon's error let Healy to first filling the sacks. Sievers out scored Woodyatt and Haley was caught trying to steal, Vaile going next and ending the inning.

One pass and three singles scored Brummer in the fifth and the score stood 3 to 1. The Browns added one to their total in their half of the fifth and things looked good. The visitors, however, put a damper on the hopes of the Dixon bunch in the sixth, when a passed ball and Brummer's cracking two bagger counted two for them, clinching the game.

There seemed ah ope left in the Dixon half of the sixth, when with two gone Vaile hit and Drew followed suit sending him to third. M. Woodyatt cracked out a single sending Vaile across the pan and leaving two on. H. Woodyatt didn't have a thing and the side retired. The scoring ended in the sixth, though several bad scares followed.

Rev. F. A. Sword of Walnut was on the Assembly grounds yesterday.

Prof. Clarence E. Krinbill and Miss Phoebe Crabtree took a trip on the electric road to Sterling this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Senneff and Neva Senneff of Polo are visiting the Assembly.

In our report of Saturday a few errors managed to creep in, one or two of which we desire to correct. The age of Lincoln at the time he was in the Illinois militia was twenty-three instead of twenty-one as stated. Some histories give the latter age, but it is a mathematical certainty that a man born in 1809 would be twenty-three years of age in 1832.

Another error was in spelling "Waubun," Mrs. Kinzie's book. The term in the language of the Dakota tribes of Indians signifies the dawn. The subject was very happily chosen by the author as the work describes the dawn of civilization in the region where the frontier scenes are depicted.

People living at stations north of Dixon should remember that on Tuesday, July 31st, which is Sunday School day at the Assembly, there will be two trains running north in the evening and on August 4th and 11th a special train will run north after the evening's entertainment. Remember also that Saturday, August 4th, is Governor Bob Taylor's day.

Miss Florence Eberle of Rock Falls attended the Assembly yesterday.

Col. Bain Lectured.

On account of the tumult of the storm Saturday afternoon Col. Bain did not begin his lecture until 4:30 o'clock. Many in the audience had come across the country from twelve to twenty miles to hear the gifted speaker and their patient waiting was finally rewarded. Col. Bain is an eloquent and effective speaker and his lecture on the "New Woman and The Old Man" never fails to please an audience.

Saturday Evening Program.

The D. W. Robertson Moving Picture company gave one of their entertaining exhibitions in the evening before a large audience, the program being preceded by music by the Dixon Marine band and the Doubt Family Concert company. The moving pictures were very fine, especially the "Train Wreckers." In this the movements of the actors were with natural speed, the parting of the trainman and his wife being the climax of perfection.

The solos by N. L. Baker were greatly appreciated, his impersonation of "Aunty" being remarkably well done.

MISS MARIE C. BREHM

State President of W. C. T. U. Who Is At the Assembly.

SUNDAY'S PROGRAM DREW IMMENSE CROWD

The program was carried out yesterday as advertised. The attendance at the Sunday school was larger than ever known before. The school was divided into four classes of adults being taught by Mr. David F. Doubt and Miss Birdena Doubt of the Concert company.

The discourse at the auditorium by Miss Brehm was profound and was listened to with marked attention by the audience.

Bain On Life Problems.

The afternoon exercises yesterday began with a sacred concert by the Doubt family. It was excellent and fully appreciated by the large audience. This was followed by a magnificent address, his fifteenth at the Dixon Assembly, by Col. Geo. W. Bain, his theme being "If I Could Live Life Over." It is useless to try to do justice to an address of this kind by attempting to describe it. A few pithy sentences were as follows: If I could, I would not live life over. Were I to live my life over I would prefer to be brought up in the country. I sympathiez with the country boy who has to leave the country home with its songs of birds, its scent of new mown hay for the busy life of the city with its destroying associations.

MISS ANTOINETTE HUNCKE

Soloist At the Assembly During the Present Week.

A ripple of laughter very suggestive occurred when Col. Bain said, "Yes, I would prefer to be reared again in the same locality. Dear old Kentucky, I love her still—but not her stills."

"The question with you, young man, is not how much money you have, but how much integrity and self-control."

"If I were to live my life over again I would not stop smoking cigars as I did thirty-one years ago, because I would never begin. I know a man worth eight million dollars, owns railways, saw mills and salt works but his wife has to spend an hour each nightw ringing out cloths in cold water to put on his head to get him to go to sleep; and I know another man not worth a dollar, and his wife has to pound on his door five minutes with a rolling pin to get him up to breakfast. Yet how many there are who envy the millionaire his money."

"Never a kindly deed done, never a kindly word spoken, but it will return some time to bless the giver. If I had my life to live over again I would do more than I have in a personal fight against the curse of rum. The question isn't what you have, it's how you live."

A part of Col. Bain's address was a terrible arraignment of the liquor traffic, which causes the destruction of 800 human lives in the United States every three days. In comparison with this gigantic curse, how small appears such a temporary infliction as the San Francisco horror. "If harvest is better than seed time and ripe fruit better than the green, why is not an honorable old age better than youth, anyway?"

Following the lecture was a beautiful solo by Miss Antoinette Huncke. This young lady has a sweet voice and years of careful training in this country and in Europe have made her a splendid vocalist. She is the principal of the vocal department of the Virginia college.

Miss Brehm Made Address.

Miss Mary C. Brehm, who was introduced to the audience by Col. Bain, gave a very interesting address on "The Little Swiss Republic."

There was a large audience at the auditorium last evening and an excellent program was presented. The Doubt Family concert was of a high order and greatly pleased the listeners.

D. W. Robertson's famous soloists, J. J. Haack and N. L. Baker, rendered a number of fine solos, the former giving "Hosanna" and "Crossing the Bar" and the latter "The Holy City," "The Palms" and "The New-Born King." The last three selections were beautifully illustrated with the projectoscope.

Innes Band Tuesday.

The Innes Orchestral band is composed of sixty pieces, five soloists, musicians whom Director Innes gave every possible test before he engaged their services. Every effort has been made to make the band the best orchestral organization the world affords. Innes and his band have enjoyed the extremely rare pleasure of playing beforet he crowned heads of Europe as well as giving concerts to the scions of the nobility in every important nature.

His soloists are considered premiers in their chosen art. While the program consists largely of classical selections, Innes has not overlooked the popular desire for the latest airs. Dixon and surrounding towns and communities should show their appreciation of the management's ambition to give them such a feature attraction by a record-breaking attendance tomorrow.

Study of Intoxicants.

At the auditorium this afternoon Miss Brehm discussed the question of the use of intoxicants from a scientific standpoint and presented an array of facts proving conclusively the injurious effects of alcoholic beverages to tissues of the human body, causing irregular and imperfect action of the different vital organs which in many cases results in death.

Athletics At the Park.

For the amusement of the boys and girls a series of prizes will be offered for six running races.

The races will be run on Central avenue at 4 p. m. tomorrow. For boys eight years and under I. B. Countryman Co. will give the winner a pair of tennis shoes. For boys nine to twelve, Lew Edwards donates a ball and bat. For boys thirteen to sixteen, Eli Rosenthal will give the winner a practice tennis racket.

For girls eight and under, Harnishes give the winner a box of candy. For girls nine to twelve, Anna L. Geisenheimer will give a fancy child's bracelet. For girls thirteen to sixteen, A. H. Tillson Drug company will give a bottle of fine perfumery. The distance will be 100 yards.

SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

PAST AND PROSPECTIVE

Mrs. Fred M. Smith entertains a party of ladies with a launch ride this evening.

E. H. Webster and family and Miss Grace Webster of Chicago are camping this week in the Woodruff cottage, near Grand Detour.

William Philpott and Dr. Claude Bacuks and families, who have been camping in the Frank Philpott cottage on Myers Island, broke camp tday.

The following party of young people spent yesterday at Haezlwood: Misses Minnie Myers, Louise Knauer, May Tyler and Anna Hess and Messrs. Alvin Harper and Percy Bradshaw.

Dr. and Mrs. E. M. Browne and Mrs. George W. Hawley enjoyed a drive to Rockford yesterday. After viewing that beautiful city and attending the Elks baseball game this afternoon, they will drive home this evening.

Mrs. Mary A. Noble, Mrs. Theron Cumins and daughter, Mrs. C. A. Todd, entertained most delightfully at Delkoosha this evening the Vicksburg Park commissioners, who are guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Noble, and a few other friends with a six o'clock tea.

Grocery Stores Remain Open.

The grocery stores will not close tomorrow. This is done on account of the country people who must come to town to trade. There are no musicians among the grocerymen and they cannot shut up to hear a band. Business before pleasure.

Henry Terveen of Freeport was here today calling on friends.

Rev. William Craven, formerly pastor of the First Methodist church and now at Oak Park, is here visiting at the E. E. Wingert home in North Dixon.

NOVEL VISITOR FOR MOUND CITY

HAS CREATED A SENSATION IN MANY LARGE EASTERN CITIES.

HIS CHARITY IS UNIQUE

Has Accumulated a Fortune In a Few Years By the Sale of His Remedies.

St. Louis, July 29—L. T. Cooper, the man who has created a sensation throughout the east, and who is rapidly acquiring a national reputation, arrived in St. Louist yesterday.

Cooper is president of the Cooper Medicine company of Dayton, Ohio, and has made a fortune within the past few years estimated at several millions by the sale of two preparations which are claimed to be very unusual, and which are said to accomplish remarkable results.

Cooper spends his time traveling from city to city introducing the remedies and in this manner he has acquired the fortune he now possesses.

Cooper is said to be a very remarkable character and a man with eccentric ideas; one of his beliefs is that a certain part of his income should be devoted to charitable work, and he is said to give thousands of dollars to the poor in each city that he visits.

His charitable work is original, as he is continually devising new methods for making money give the most pleasure and relief possible.

The most remarkable feature of Cooper's work is what is known as "Three minute removal of deafness." In cities visited by him during the past year he has appeared nightly before large audineces and offered to make any one hear, within less than three minutes, if they would come upon the stage. Reports from Cincinnati, Detroit, Cleveland and Louisville and other cities seem to indicate that Cooper actually did as he claimed.

Each night he is said to have removed, before thousands of people, cases of deafness in about three minutes time with one of his preparations. The accounts of his work appeared in all the leading "dailies" of the east, and people have flocked to him from all parts of the country.

The sale of his preparation is said to reach enormous proportions within a week after Cooper arrives in a city. Whether he will be as successful in St. Louis as elsewhere remains to be seen.

DANGERS OF DIETING

UNDERFEEDING LIABLE TO WEAKEN HEART'S ACTION.

Usually Appetite Is a Measure of Health, and the First Sign of Illness In a Man or an Animal Is Loss of the Desire For Food.

Professor Alexander Haig, an English dietary expert, has written from London to the medical fraternity of New York warning Americans against the popular belief that the average man eats too much. He says that the increasing number of deaths from heart failure is largely due to underfeeding.

The notion that science is a more unerring guide than is nature is constantly gaining ground. In the good old days men drank when they were thirsty and ate of whatever they wished until their hunger was satisfied. Now science condemns such foolishness as primitive. It prescribes one glass of water one hour before meals and one glass one hour after meals—no more, no less. If you happen not to be thirsty at those times, no matter, drink that amount anyway. If perchance you are thirsty and would like two glasses you must not yield; it is only nature that prompts you, and nature is an unsafe guide. Or, you may be "abnormally" thirsty at meals; nevertheless do not drink then.

As to our amount of food, we are directed to consume so many grams of the proteids, so many grams of the carbohydrates and so many grams of fat, while we hear learned discourses upon large calories and the supreme importance of exactly maintaining our nitrogen balance—whatever that may mean.

I have purposely not mentioned the precise numbers of grams of the different food elements, for the simple reason that our eminent authorities have not yet agreed upon this important point. All give different figures.

Scientists, however, following the lead of Russell H. Chittenden, Ph. D., LL. D., Sc. D., have pretty well agreed that the average man eats twice more than he needs. If half his customary amount of food does not satisfy him it ought to, they say, and it will eventually, provided he keeps on suppressing his natural and therefore unscientific instincts.

But just here lies a danger. It is true that one can accustom himself to a much smaller quantity of food than that to which he has been habituated and that eventually he will desire that smaller quantity and no more, but when he attains to this condition his digestive power will have been reduced by one-half. As a result he will lose from ten to thirty pounds in weight; that is to say, his muscles and organs will decrease by so much in bulk and strength. Now, if the heart decreases considerably in strength there will always be danger of its collapse, particularly if it be subjected to any extra strain, as when one runs for a car or rapidly up a flight of steps. Excitement alone may be fatal to a weak heart.

Rigorous dieting to reduce weight is always dangerous. A better plan is to work off the superfluous flesh by exercise.

Lack of sleep has a depressing effect on the heart, for during sleep cerebral circulation diminishes, when the blood can devote itself to the rest of the body.

Eating before going to bed, particularly if one is up late, is a good practice, it being most favorable to thorough body repair that the blood at night be rich in nourishment.

Accustoming the digestive organs to a small amount of food results in a decline of appetite, whereas our object should be to increase appetite and thereby strengthen our digestive powers by judicious exercise in the open air or in a well ventilated room.

If the doctrine that a small appetite is preferable to a large appetite be true—and this is what "economy in nutrition" teaches—then open air exercise, which manifestly increases appetite, must be injurious to health. Or why should we exercise to increase appetite if we may eat only so much?

The notion is wholly absurd. The first sign of illness in a man or an animal is loss of appetite. And usually appetite is a measure of health.

To build up the heart and muscular system generally we must vigorously exercise the muscles.

It is not enough that one should stuff himself; it is all important that he should desire every morsel he eats, and this he will do only if he undergoes general physical and mental exercise. Food that is ingested, and even digested, will be absorbed only by those organs that need it—that have been exercised. This fact explains why many persons that are good "feeders" are yet inadequately nourished. If they are brain workers and take no physical exercise their brains absorb what nourishment they need; the rest is excreted.

Magnificent as are the results of brain work we must bear in mind that there could be no result without the co-operation of the body, and that the body in its turn depends primarily on the integrity of its heart, lungs and stomach.—G. Elliot Flint in New York World.

Men of the People.

The American tradition is the experience of the world everywhere. There is Washington and there is Hamilton, gently born and gently bred, but somehow the heart turns rather to Franklin and to Lincoln, as of more hope for the common men "God made so many of."—Mr. Howells in Harper's Weekly.

It requires a great deal of boldness and a great deal of caution to make a great fortune, and when you have got it it requires ten times as much wit to keep it.—Rothschild.

PICTURE ON A HILL.

The Long Man of Wilmington, England, Measures 240 Feet.

About midway between Berwick and Polegate stations, at a point where the side of the hill is very precipitous, those who know exactly the spot where to look will be able to see from the railway carriage windows a sort of rude imitation of the human form outlined in white. The figure, which is between 200 and 300 feet in height, holds a long staff in each hand. This is the "Long Man of Wilmington," once the center of profound veneration and worship, but now merely an object of interest to the curious.

In order to obtain an adequate idea of this great hillside figure, dominating the surrounding country and appearing to watch as guardian over the little village below, it is desirable to approach it afoot, tramping along the winding lanes, as the pilgrims of old must have tramped when they came hither on the occasion of some great religious festival. Seen from afar, the figure does not appear to be of remarkable size, but gradually as one approaches the hill it assumes an imposing and definite shape.

The figure, about 240 feet in height, was merely shaped in the turf so as to allow the chair to appear through. In the course of time these depressions in the surface became almost imperceptible, and to such an extent was the figure neglected that at last it was only possible to make out the form at a distance when the slight hollows were marked by drifted snow or when the oblique rays of the rising or setting sun threw them into a deep shadow. In order to preserve the form of the Long Man, and to render it at the same time easily distinguishable at a distance the outline was marked by a single line of white bricks placed closely together. The effect has been to produce a somewhat startling figure, which is plainly visible in fine weather from a great distance.

There are in different parts of the country other examples of extremely rude and early hillside figures, and, although the very fact of their great antiquity renders it unlikely that historical or documentary evidence will be forthcoming as to their design or precise purpose, it is very satisfactory to find that an explanation has been found which will at once account for many of their peculiarities.

The theory is that these are sacrificial figures. We learn from the writings of Caesar that the Gauls (and the Britons were doubtless included) had figures of vast size, the limbs of which, formed of osiers, they filled with living men. The figure was ultimately fired, and the miserable victims perished in the flames.

There is a local saying in Sussex, probably of great antiquity, in which the Long Man is mentioned in reference to the weather. It runs:

When Firlie hill and Long Man has a cap
We at A'ston gets a drap.

Football In Burma.

"Chinlon," the Burmese form of football, is the national game. The name means "round basket," writes Mr. Kelly in his book on Burma, and the chinlon is really a ball about six inches in diameter formed of plaited rattans. The game is played by several youths or men, who stand in a circle a few feet apart. The ball having been thrown into play, the one nearest to whom it falls kicks it up into the air with the instep, knee or side of the foot. The effort is to keep it in the air as long as possible and without losing possession of the ball. A fancy stroke is to turn about face as the ball falls and kick it with the sole of the foot, although the elbows, head or any part of the body except hand and toes may be used. While playing no one leaves his place, but waits until the ball falls within his reach, when he in turn endeavors to retain its possession. It is a very pretty game to watch, and the skill of the performers is often surprising.

The Smallest Screws.

The smallest screws ever made are used in the manufacture of the miniature watches which are sometimes fitted in rings, shirt studs, bracelets, etc. They are the next thing to being invisible to the naked eye, looking like minute grains of sand. With a good glass, however, it may be plainly seen that each is a perfect screw, having a number of threads equal to 1,260 to the inch. These tiny screws are four one-thousandths of an inch in diameter and seven one-thousandths of an inch in length. It is estimated that a lady's thimble of average size would hold 100,000 of them. No attempt is ever made to count these "tiny triumphs of mechanical ingenuity" other than to get a basis for estimation. The method usually pursued in determining their number is to carefully count 100 and then place them on a delicate balance, the number of a given amount being determined by the weight of these.

Cars For Man and Beast.

From Salzburg you go to Munich. While traveling through the mountains of Bavaria you drop suddenly from the sublime to the ridiculous by catching a glimpse of a car bearing a label of which this is the translation:

"For thirty-two men or six horses."

On inquiry you learn that the Bavarian railroads run fourth class cars, on which the very poor may travel for a trifle or which may be used at the option of the railroad to transport equine freight. Later you have an opportunity to inspect some of these fourth class cars, and you find them to be similar to our own freight cars, although much smaller. Plain wood benches form the seats, which may be removed to accommodate the live stock. Most of the European freight cars and many of the passenger cars have only four wheels and look like toy affairs compared to our own.—Chicago Post.

ABYSSINIAN APES.

They Have Chiefs, Guards and Sentries When on the March.

Very similar reports are made from different parts of north Africa in regard to the monkey tribes that occupy that continent from Morocco to Abyssinia. Just how far tribal relations may have tended to vary the species is a question quite as important as that of language. Some points of interest are found in an English book, "A Visit to Abyssinia." Says our author:

"I have mentioned that large numbers of monkeys frequent these hills. They move about in organized bands, and their proceedings are arranged in the most orderly and tactical manner. They are difficult to approach unless it is gradually and cautiously done; but mounted on a camel I have succeeded in getting within a few yards of them when they were crossing the path ahead of me, about fifty in single file following their leader and looking with their manes like small lions.

"Their movements are full of interest and well repay observation. They have chiefs, sentries and advanced and rear guards on the march. The mothers carry their children on their backs exactly like the larger human creatures in these countries. They talk and chatter, the females being especially loquacious, quarrelsome and combative. These are clearly under the command of the elder males, whose gesture alone is sufficient to reduce them to obedience. They live in small caverns among the hills, but will most certainly avoid a direct return to their haunts if followed.

"They are less timid of men when these are mounted on camels than when on foot, experience having doubtless taught them that the former is usually traveling to a destination and that his steady, jogging pace is rarely interrupted by his curiosity. On one occasion, seeing a whole family tribe on the road home after a foraging excursion, I successfully tempted some of the younger ones to leave their ranks by quietly rolling pieces of bread and sugar at them, but the older members were above such weakness and went on in a stately way up the hill, disappearing over the ledge and reproving the youngsters as they retired."

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

It is easy to expect others to set good examples.

When opportunity knocks it doesn't use a hammer.

Despair is the undertaker that carts off our dead hopes.

Occasionally a man rises from nothing to something worse.

Prodigals have always exceeded the supply of fatted calves.

It doesn't require much practice to acquire the art of being lazy.

Many a man who takes himself seriously is looked upon as a joke by others.

Imagination is responsible for half of our troubles, and our fool actions are responsible for the other half.

When a wise man bestows a favor he immediately forgets it. When a fool receives a favor he does likewise.—Chicago News.

Don't Cross Your Legs.

"The prevalence of appendicitis is an admitted fact," said a surgeon. "I have myself operated on 719 persons for the disease. Crossing the legs is responsible for a good deal of this trouble. That sounds strange, doesn't it? Nevertheless it is a theory advocated by more than one great surgeon. Indeed I know some men who say that if people never crossed their legs appendicitis would quite disappear. You see, crossing the leg squeezes and cramps the delicate vermiform appendix. Squeezed and cramped, the appendix becomes irritated. Inflammation sets in. Intense pain comes. Then—presto—you are on your back, the sweet and heavy fumes of chloroform are choking you, and the appendicitis specialist bends over you with a sharp knife."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

What They Meant.

A Scotch clergyman named Fraser claimed the title and estates of Lord Lovat. He tried on the trial of the case to establish his pedigree by producing an ancestral watch on which were engraved the letters S. F. The claimant alleged that these letters were the initials of his ancestor, the notorious Simon Fraser, Lord Lovat, beheaded in 1747 for supporting the young pretender. The letters, engraved under the regulator, were shown to stand for "Slow, Fast," and the case was laughed out of court.

The Diver Bird.

A Dantzic correspondent writes: While swimming on a lake with her brood of five a diver bird was shot and, although mortally wounded, collected her young ones and dived for their safety. When her dead body floated to the surface the five little birds were still clinging with their beaks to her wings, but all had been suffocated by remaining too long under the water.—London Mail.

Philosophy.

A Kansas philosopher warns the men against the girl who takes time to consider a proposal of marriage. He intimates that she is hopeful that something better will turn up. Still, the man she finally accepts can console himself with the reflection that she has discovered it wasn't possible for anything better to turn up.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Whistle Blows.

Bill—Don't you think this blowing of factory whistles is a nuisance? Jill—Well, when they blow for quitting time I don't think so, but when they blow for us to go to work I certainly do!—Yonkers Statesman.

A hundred years ago the best physician would give you a medicine for your heart without stopping to consider what effect it might have on the liver. Even to this good day cough and cold medicines invariably bind the bowels. This is wrong. Bee's Laxative Cough Syrup with Honey and Tar acts on the bowels—drives out the cold—clears the head, relieves all coughs, cleanses and strengthens the mucous membranes of the throat, chest, lungs and bronchial tubes.

Sold by Rowland Bros., Leake Bros. and North Side Drug Store.

The old time method of purging the system with Cathartics that tear gripe, grind and break down the walls of the stomach and intestines is superseded by Dade's Little Liver Pills. They cleanse the liver, and instead of weakening, build up and strengthen the whole system. Relieve headache, biliousness, constipation, etc.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. DON'T OVERLOOK THIS

A Careful Perusal Will Prove Its Value to Every Dixon Reader.

The average man is a doubter, and there is little wonder that this is so. Misrepresentations make people skeptics. Now-a-days the public asks for better evidence than the testimony of strangers. Here is proof which should convince every Dixon reader.

Mrs. C. Spiller, of 1203 Seventh St., says: "When a sufferer from severe pain across the loins which refuses to leave with ordinary treatment at last manages to radicalyl dispose of it by the use of a medicine, that sufferer is only too pleased to let the public know the means employed to get relief. I went to Leake's drug store for Doan's Kidney Pills and took the remedy. It cured me. I am only too pleased to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

A sweet breathaddstothejoys of a kiss. You would'nt want to kiss your wife, mother or sweetheart with a bad breath. You can't have a sweet breath without a healthy stomach. You can't have a healthy stomach without perfect digestion. There is only one remedy that digests what you eat and makes the breath as sweet as a rose—and that remedy is KODOL FOR DYSPEPSIA. It is a relief for sour stomach, palpitation of the heart, and other ailments arising from disorder of the stomach and digestion. Take a little Kodol after your meals and see what it will do for you. Sold by Rowland Bros.

Bronchitis for Twenty Years.

Mrs. Minerva Smith, of Danville, Ill., writes: "I had bronchitis for twenty years and never got relief until I used Foley's Honey and Tar which is a sure cure." Rowland Bros.

Two Bottles Cured Him.

"I was troubled with kidney complaint for about two years," writes A. H. Davis, of Mt. Sterling, Iowa, "but two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure effected a permanent cure."

MUTINY IN THE ARMY

Serious Outbreak That Required the Use of Machine Guns to Suppress.

RUSSIA IS IN A VERY BAD WAY

Peasants Attack a Monastery—Reds Hold Up a Print Shop.

St. Petersburg, July 30.—A rumor has reached the Associated Press that General Trepoff has been killed. It could not be confirmed, and probably is a revival of the false rumor current last week.

Poltava, Russia, July 30.—A grave outbreak has occurred in the Sevski regiment, following the arrest of a private of the First battalion, who was discovered with some other soldiers in a shed where the revolutionists are in the habit holding meetings. After the arrest the entire First battalion, accompanied by a large crowd, paraded the streets in defiance of the military authorities. The soldiers proceeded to the artillery barracks, where they seized several guns and marched with them to the prison where the political prisoners are confined. At this stage all the remainder of the Poltava garrison was called out. The loyal troops fired on the mutineers with machine guns as they were engaged in breaking down the gate of the prison. Several men were killed or wounded, and the outbreak was suppressed.

Peasants Attack a Monastery.

Yekaterinoslav, July 30.—While the train upon which a correspondent of the Associated Press was traveling from Kharkov to Yekaterinoslav was passing the great monastery erected near Borky by Alexander III to commemorate the escape of himself and members of the imperial family from a railroad wreck in 1888, firing and cries for help were heard. The train was stopped and a monk came on board. He said the peasantry was attacking the monastery and that the monks were defending it. He had managed to escape to summon help. He was brought on the train to Yekaterinoslav, whence he telegraphed the governor of Kharkov, asking that troops be sent to the monastery. No further details of the affair have been received. The peasants apparently have seized the telegraph lines.

Bold Deed of the Reds.

St. Petersburg, July 30.—A party of men armed with revolvers forced their way into the Boussel printing establishment here. They made the foreman a prisoner and prevented the compositors from leaving the building. They then had printed 150,000 copies of the Viborg manifesto of the lower house of parliament. Strangers calling at the establishment while this work was being done were detained to prevent their giving alarm. While this was transpiring within the printing works a religious procession, escorted by policemen both mounted and on foot, drew up to a church immediately opposite, but no one was aware of what was passing inside the establishment.

TRAIN ROBBERS ARE BUSY

One Band Attacks a Guarded Train—Fatal Fight Follows.

Warsaw, July 30. — Two daring train robberies were committed in Russian Poland, one of them resulting in a considerable loss of life. A train from the frontier station Herby, bound for Czenstochowa, was carrying money received from the customs house to the branch of the Imperial bank, under protection of seven frontier guardsmen. General Zukat, chief of the frontier guard; General Weltenring, chief of the customs service of Warsaw; Colonel Brzezicki, and Captain Laguma were passengers.

Fifteen persons boarded the train at a way station. They evidently had been waiting for it, and made an attack on the guardsmen, who were reinforced by the officers named. A regular fight followed in which the two generals, two officials, five soldiers and one robber were killed and Colonel Brzezicki and one robber wounded. The robbers escaped, taking $8,000 and the arms of those who had attempted to defend the train against robbery.

The second robbery was committed on the Warsaw-Vienna railway, six miles from Warsaw. While the train was under way unknown persons pulled the danger signal, causing it to stop. Robbers who were aboard jumped out and seized the locomotive and detached the mail car from the train and ran it down the line. They secured $37,500 of government money. The train was without a guard, and hence there was no fighting and no casualties.

The robber who lies wounded at Czenstochowa is in a serious condition. He refuses to give any information whatsoever concerning his accomplices.

WORKMEN'S DEPUTIES MEET

General Strike to Come, Not Now, but Later, They Say.

St. Petersburg, July 30.—A plenary meeting of the St. Petersburg council of workmen's deputies, representing 130,000 workmen, was held at Terioki, a little town across the Finnish border which is now the Mecca of all opponents of the government. The members agreed that a general strike, though it must be declared later, at the present moment would be untimely. The afternoon was spent in discussing other measures, and an expression of views as to the attitude to be taken by the workmen on the dissolution of parliament. Many of the delegates favored a gigantic one-day strike, but no decision of this point was reached.

There is much jubilation among the revolutionists over the escape from prison at Sebastopol of Samenkoff who is believed to have been an accomplice in the attempt last May on the life of General Neplueff. This escape sets at liberty one of the most dangerous revolutionary organizers in Russia.

The censorship on foreign newspapers, which for a number of years blocked out all articles distasteful to the government, but which was practically abandoned this year, is being restored. "The classic caviar" (articles are blocked out with a mixture of caviar printers' ink and sand) adorns column after column of the leading foreign periodicals now received in Russia.

GORKY MAKES AN APPEAL

Wants to Know if There Are Living Men in This Country.

New York, July 30. — Maxim Gorky has made public an appeal directed to the people of the United States to "help the people of Russia to free its body from the parasites which suck its life's blood." He takes for his text "the czar has dispersed the duma." Some characteristic phrases are these:

"The Russian government will now inaugurate a policy of brutal and bestial reprisals. The hangmen and thieves surrounding the throne and supporting it with bloodstained hands have of late heard many bitter and insulting truths from the lips of courageous and honest men. They will avenge themselves for it and their vengeance will be severe.

"The black, blood-soaked wings of death will flutter over the country for months. The exhausted earth will swallow thousands of corpses of men whose only crime was the desire to live a human life. * * * Are we civilized people or are we not? * * * If such crying horrors occur as those which we now witness in Russia true men and women cannot remain quiet at their sight." He closes with an appeal for help for Russia and asks: "Are there in this country living men, and will they hear me?"

TRIBUTE TO JACKSON

Roanoke, Va., July 30.—A handsome memorial window to General Thomas ("Stonewall") Jackson has been unveiled in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church (negro. The window was obtained by the pastor, Rev. L. L. Downing, the money for its purchase coming wholly from negroes. The exercises were largely attended by both races, the Confederate camps of Roanoke and Salem, and the chapters of the Daughters of the Confederacy of the same place being well represented. The chief addresses were by leading white citizens of Roanoke.

Downing's father and mother were members of a Sunday school class of negro slaves taught by Jackson at Lexington before the war, and these exercises marked the realization of an ambition Downing has had since boyhood to pay fitting tribute to the Confederate commander.

Umpire Demands Investigation.

Milwaukee, July 30.—Umpire Owen, of the American Association, demands an immediate investigation of the charges of collusion with gamblers in Minneapolis in connection with the Minneapolis-Columbus series played at Minneapolis last week.

Carried a Union Printer's Card.

St. Paul, July 30.—R. W. Penaff, who carried a printers' union traveling card from Rochester, N. Y., was killed in the Milwaukee railway yards in this city.

LONG SWIM FOR HELP

Feat of a Chicago Young Man to Save His Own and Companion's Lives.

THEY ARE A MILE FROM SHORE

Boat Capsized and a Storm Raging—Horrible Suspicion Against a Mother—State News Items.

Chicago, July 30.—With the heavy seas exhausting him and the downpour of rain beating in his eyes young Otto Runde, Jr., 119 Rice street, swam over a mile from his capsized yacht, the Venita R., to the shore at the north end of Lincoln park. He swam not only for his own life, but for help, having left behind him a companion, George J. Cowan, clinging to the overturned craft. The yacht itself could not be seen on account of the heavy rain, but a park policeman, pacing the beach in a raincoat, saw Runde's head bobbing over the breakers, waded out, and brought him in.

Cowan Saved by a Tugboat.

Then the tugboat, Richard B., was notified, and it reached the overturned craft in time to save Cowan. The boat was towed back into the yacht harbor in the park. Cowan was the more exhausted of the two, though the muscles of Runde's legs and shoulders, taxed by the long strain, stood out like whipcords and gave him considerable pain. He is 18 years old and Cowan 26. The two went out in the boat about 2 o'clock to watch the yacht race, but found trouble at once. It began to rain and the waves rose, washing into their twenty-two-foot craft. After a couple of hours of hard work bailing and tacking the two concluded to give it up as a bad job and get back to the harbor.

Decided Too Late for Safety.

This decision was too late for safety, however, the yacht having become too water-logged to manage in the face of the hard wind that was blowing. About 4 o'clock a gust of wind caught the two boys with their sheets fast and the boat went over. They said they thought they were about two miles out when this happened. The boat was driven toward shore slowly by the wind. The distance had been cut down to about a mile when Runde decided it was useless to await assistance from the life savers, who could not see them on account of the storm.

IS THE WOMAN A MONSTER?

Or the Victim of a Terribly Cruel Suspicion?—Horrible Charge Against a Mother.

Benton, Ill., July 30.—Eleven children of Mrs. Leary Orton, wife of a farmer living near Thomsonville are said to have died in a suspicious manner, and the woman is in jail here pending an investigation by the state's attorney's office. The specific charge against her is the murder of the eleventh child, the body of which was found concealed in an old straw pile, its neck having been broken. An inquest was held, and since that time the authorities claim to have found additional evidence against the woman.

Mrs. Orten tearfully protests her innocence, and declares that the authorities are monsters to bring such a charge against a mother. At the preliminary hearing additional light may be thrown upon the case, which has aroused the people of Franklin county.

Beaten by a Gang of Thugs.

Bloomington, Ill., July 30. — William Goodman, aged 73, is at the home of his son Charles, in Moultrie county, suffering from possibly fatal injuries received at the hands of a gang of thugs in Chicago. He resides in Elwood, Neb., and was en route to the home of his son when he became lost from his granddaughter in Chicago. After a week's search he was found in a hospital, his jaw broken and his body a mass of bruises. He says that he was attacked by a crowd of men and boys and everything of value that he possessed taken from him.

Comment on the Cullom Claim.

Chicago, July 30.—Commenting on the claim of the Cullom men to seventy-nine counties of the state—"The estimate looks like a confession of weakness and an attempt to bolster up the cause," said C. J. Doyle, one of the Yates campaign managers. "It is worse than foolish for any man to predict how this state is going. We have a brand new primary law and there are no precedents to aid in determining how the people will vote or how many of them will vote."

"Billy" McHenry Is Missing.

Chicago, July 30.—"Billy" McHenry, for thirty-four years acquainted with the ups and downs of the board of trade—latterly the "downs" in particular—is believed to have ended his career in the lake. He lost his whole fortune a few years ago. He has been missing for a week. Ten minutes after her husband left the house Mrs. McHenry made a search of the house but could not find him, and he has not been found.

Dead Boy Weighed 406 Pounds.

Arcola, Ill., July 30. — Provie Henry, known throughout this section as "the Atwood fat boy," is dead. He was 19 years of age and weighed 406 pounds. His waist measurement was 73 inches. His parents are under the usual size, as his father weighs but 145 pounds. His death was due to fatty degeneration of the heart.

RHEUMATISM

TROUBLESOME PAINS AND ACHES

While Rheumatism is usually worse in Winter because of the cold and dampness of a changing atmosphere, it is by no means a Winter disease entirely. Persons in whose blood the uric acid, which produces the disease, has collected, feel its troublesome pains and aches all the year round. The cause of Rheumatism is a sour, acid condition of the blood, brought about by the accumulation in the system of refuse matter, which the natural avenues of bodily waste have failed to carry off. This refuse matter coming in contact with the different acids of the body, forms uric acid which is absorbed by the blood and distributed to all parts of the body, and Rheumatism gets possession of the system. Rheumatic persons are almost constant sufferers; the nagging pains in joints and muscles, are ever present under the most favorable climatic conditions, while exposure to dampness or an attack of indigestion will often bring on the severer symptoms even in warm, pleasant weather. Liniments, plasters, lotions, etc., relieve the pain and give the sufferer temporary comfort, but are in no sense curative; because Rheumatism is not a disease that can be rubbed away or drawn out with a plaster. S. S. S. is the best treatment for Rheumatism; it goes down into the blood and attacks the disease at its head, and by neutralizing the acid and driving it out, and building up the thin, sour blood, cures Rheumatism permanently. Being made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, S. S. S. will not injure the system in the least. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice without charge.

DIXON, ILLS., JULY 28, 1906

TO ALL GAS CONSUMERS OF DIXON:

The Lee County Lighting Company will after July 31st inst. abandon the discount system on gas for all gas bills created after that date. No discount will be allowed, thus making the gas $1.25 per thousand feet, net. All bills due the Company must be paid at the Lighting Company's office on or before the 15th of the month succeeding the month in which the gas was consumed. Payments must be thus made as a condition of further supply of gas. The Company will not send around a collector at all. This course has been adopted owing to the increased price of gas coal and the raise of wages to the Company's employees in the various departments.

NEW PRINCIPAL FOR HARMON SCHOOL

PROF. W. E. FINKENBINDER HAS BEEN ENGAGED FOR NEXT YEAR.

LITTLE DAMAGE FROM STORM

Oat Harvest In Progress—Politics Growing Warmer—Personal News Notes.

Harmon, July 30—The question of who will be the principal of the Harmon schools has at last been decided in favor of Prof. W. E. Finkenbinder of Kent, DuPage county Ill. Prof. Finkenbinder last year taught in the public schools of DeKalb, and comes to Harmon highly recommended.

The hiring of a principal leaves one place vacant in the Harmon schools, the intermediate department, and there is a prospect that this place will be filled shortly to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Minnie E. Tosney, late principal, is enjoying her vacation on the Pacific coast, and rumors that she has secured a desirable place in a nearby city cannot now be verified.

Lumber Price Effects Building.

For some reason, probably the high price of lumber, building operations in this vicinity do not show the activity that the early spring promised.

John Behrendt has just finished a barn for A. W. Carlson of Hamilton township, which takes the place of the one dsetroyed by lightning on the 27th of June. Mr. Behrendt's next job will be the erection of a barn in Dixon.

Contractor J. H. Rhodenbaugh has just completed the Henry Stoffregen barn, and commenced this morning the erection of a 16x28 addition to the Carl Block house. Besides this addition Mr. Block will build several large porches and otherwise beautify his home, which is located about three miles northeast of Deer Grove.

M. P. Harris of Lee, Ill., will probably this week, erect a large corn barn on each of his two farms north of the village. Contractor Rhodenbaugh will do the work.

Busy Threshing Oats.

Farmers will be busy all this week and next threshing their oats. Harvesting is done for this year, and it is probable the yield of oats will be better this year than was expected a couple of weeks ago, although the crop is far from a good one. The straw will be of little value as feed, on account of the rust.

Fred Byers passed through the village Thursday with his new threshing outfit. He has secured a number of contracts with farmers southwest of town.

Small Damage By Storm.

The rain Saturday, one of the heaviest of the season, was accompanied with lightning which did no damage in the village. The rain will do the corn crop a great deal of good, as the surface of the ground was becoming dry.

On the W. D. Parker farm, east of here, lightning struck a wire fence and demolished nine posts. The electric fluid also struck a willow tree on the same farm, near the house occupied by John P. Sill.

Birthday Surprises.

Thirteen of the little friends of Gladys Kugler united in surprising her last Wednesday evening, the occasion being her eleventh birthday. The party met in the evening on the lawn of the Kugler home, which was beautifully decorated with Japanese lanterns. The time was pleasantly spent in various kinds of games and at 10 o'clock a lunch was served on the lawn.

Those assisting in the surprise were Olive Stoffregen, Nellie, Katie and Mary Ryan, Gertrude and May Whitman of Chicago, Gertrude Considine, Lela Pelton, Edna and Leafy Hettinger, Nettie Purcell, Hazel Reed and Frances Kugler.

Shortly after refreshments were served, the little friends dispersed, wishing Gladys many happy returns of her natal day.

Political Campaign Warms.

Attorney A. G. Harris, candidate for county judge, and Attorney W. H. Winn spoke to a fair sized audience in Harmon Saturday evening, but neither gave any valid reason why there should be a change in the office to which Mr. Harris aspires. It may or may not be a matter of significance, but the handbills announcing the fact that Messrs. Harris and Winn would speak here were posted and circulated by a democrat.

This week promises to be a busy one politically, as each candidate will want to say his last word to every voter before Saturday.

That there will be a large vote polled at the primary here can hardly be expected, as this is a very busy season for the farmer, but everybody who has a vote should see to it that the best candidates will be nominated, and be willing to devote an hour or two to coming to the polls and voting.

Harmon Personals.

George H. Keyes, for years conductor on the Burlington freight train that passes east in the evening and west in the morning, made his last tri pSaturday night. It is understood that he will have charge of a train that will not require him to turn day into night. He will be missed, as he knows everybody who travels over the line and everybody knows him.

John L. Porter was a business visitor in Dixon Thursday.

Henry J. Mongoven transacted business in Sterling last Friday.

H. J. Neal, now the oldest resident in Harmon, is gradually grodding weaker. Mentally he is a complete wreck, being unable to do the simplest things a lifelong habit has accustomed him to. A collapse physically can be expected at any time.

Mrs. Schow and her two children will leave this week for Ottawa, Ill., where their future home will be.

Oscar Geoffrey of Rock Falls visited with his sister, Mrs. C. E. Parker, the latter part of last week.

Mrs. Frank H. Kugler left Saturday morning for a two weeks' visit with relatives and friends in Bloomington, Ill., and vicinity.

John L. Porter has been selected as the choice of the republicans of Harmon township as the eleventh primary delegate district's delegate to the senatorial convention, to be held in Dixon.

M. F. Burke and family and Miss Mary Garland went to Dixon Saturday from whence they will go to Freeport, their future residence.

William J. Long began his duties as manager of the Neola Elevator company's business at West Brooklyn. The best wishes of his many Harmon friends for his success go with him.

About ten Harmonites have purchased chances to draw as many lots at the opening of the town of Morrison, Oklahoma, about the 18th of September. Probably five of the purchasers here will go to Morrison at that time, taking advantage of the cheap rates to see the country.

P. Nagle and family, for many years residents of Harmon, will soon move to Dixon.

Mrs. Lyons and daughter of Pontiac, visited Mrs. Thos. P. Long last week.

Charles Apelgreen transacted business at the county seat Thursday.

T. H. Gebhart of Lostant was here Thursday looking after his farming interests south of town.

John F. Harris made a business trip to Chicago Thursday.

Miss Agnes Brooks, who has been attending the DeKalb normal school, has returned home.

Frank O'Brien sr. was a business visitor to Dixon Thursday.

L. O. Hardesty, carrier on route No. 2, after making his rounds Friday drove to Walnut on business.

The dance given by the baseball boys was successful in every way. Everybody had a good time, and the crowd was just large enough not to be in each other's way.

John Reding of Somonauk, Ill., is visiting with his daughter, Mrs. Henry Stoffregen. He will remain here for a week or ten days.

M. P. Harris of Lee, Ill., will build two large cornribs on his farm near town occupied by Michael Gorman and Charles A. Tully. Contractor J. H. Rhodenbaugh will do the work.

Henry B. Trowbridge is home from a week spent in Egeland, N. Dak., in the interests of the Grand Detour Plow company.

Frank O. Schmucker has sold to Gus Holmes, the wealthy contractor and builder of Rockford, the finest team of black driving horses that ever went out of Dixon. The purchaser is much pleased with his new possession.

THE WRONG GLASS

If your present Glasses fail to give you ease and comfort, there's something wrong. Is it your Glasses or your Eyes?

That's a Vital Question With You.

Either is bad enough and should bring you to us at once.

Papa was becoming impatient at the late hour, when he remarked: "I can't see why that young fellow who is calling on Minnie hasn't the sense to go home. It's near midnight."

The little brother of the family just then came in, heard the father's remark and ventured some light: "He can't go, father; sister's sitting on him!"
